Student Teaching and Research

Students are usually employed by the department or school; please inquire with your academic program about employment opportunities. Academic eligibility requirements exist for all types of graduate student employment, and English language proficiency requirements for Teaching Assistantships.

Graduate Student Researcher

A Graduate Student Researcher (title code 3282) is a full-time registered UC Davis graduate student appointed to assist in performing research under the direction of a ladder-rank faculty member or authorized Principal Investigator. Graduate Student Researchers are selected for high achievement and promise as creative scholars; they may collaborate in the publication of research results as determined by supervising faculty members. Students must be registered in the previous spring quarter to be eligible for a summer GSR appointment.

Incoming students may begin summer GSR prior to fall enrollment once they have submitted their Statement of Intent to Register.

Associate In__

The title Associate In __ (title code 1506) is assigned to a graduate student of excellent scholarship and teaching promise, who is temporarily employed as the instructor of an entire lower division course or group of students in a lower division course. An AI may instruct an upper division course, but only on the basis of a petition for exception to policy which has been approved by Academic Senate Committee on Courses. An AI should be competent to conduct instruction independently and without supervision. Master's degree or completion of 30 units of graduate work and one year teaching experience, including any time served as a TA are required to hold an AI position.

Teaching Assistant

A Teaching Assistant (title code 2310) is a full-time registered graduate student, chosen for excellent scholarship and teaching promise, serving an apprenticeship under the active tutelage and supervision of a regular faculty member. Teaching Assistant is not responsible for the instructional content of a course, for selection of student assignments, for planning of examinations, or for determining the term grade for students. The Teaching Assistant is responsible for the conduct of recitation, laboratory, or quiz sections under the active direction and supervision of a regular member of the faculty to whom final responsibility for the course's entire instruction, including the performance of Teaching Assistants, has been assigned. No student may serve as a Teaching Assistant (TA) in a course in which s/he is enrolled.

Reader

The title Reader (title code 2850) is given to a graduate or undergraduate student appointed for the ability to render diverse services as a "course assistant," which will normally include the grading of student papers and examinations. A Reader will not be assigned the responsibilities of leading discussion or laboratory sections. A student may not serve as a Reader in a course in which he or she is enrolled. Non-student appointments are reviewed on a case-by-case basis by Graduate Studies prior to employment

Tutor

The Tutor (title code 2860) works with individual students or small groups of students to assist them in their learning. Material covered may be topical in nature or related to a specific course. Tutors may keep regularly scheduled drop-in hours for student consultation and tutoring. Tutors do not grade tests, papers or other student assignments and do not work under the direct supervision of a faculty member. The title "Remedial Tutor" is used for appointments in the School of Law and the School of Medicine.

The above information provides the minimum qualifications for the various student research and teaching positions. Please note that these are minimum qualifications only. Individual departments may have unique needs for their discipline. Departments that wish to hire someone who does not meet the stated minimum qualifications must file a Petition for Exception to Policy with Graduate Studies. No offer of employment may be made nor employment begun unless and until the petition has been approved. These minimum qualifications are established by and at the sole discretion of the University of California.

For qualifications and applications procedures, please contact the appropriate departmental contact person. You may also wish to refer to Appendix IIB of the UC Davis Academic Policy Manual for further information regarding policies and procedures related to these positions.
